TENNIS MEN MEET

A committee of tennis players visited the Oahu Country Club last evening and looked over the ground in regard to the construction of courts. Those present were A. T. Brock, F. E. Steere, Willie Roth, Clarence and George Cooke.

All expressed themselves as well pleased with the location of the courts, which will be sheltered by the clubhouse.

Most of those present favored cement courts, which are now giving the most satisfaction throughout the States. A cement court has many advantages over the tiled and dirt courts. There is no expense in keeping it up. It is always clean and the tapes used on the outer courts are done away with. The chances are that one cement and one dirt court will be built to start with.

The tennis men relish the idea of having a swimming pool to plunge in after a hard game of tennis. It looks as though tennis will be as popular at the new club as golf.

Entries for the White Rock tournament are coming in fast at E. O. Hall & Son's and it looks as though there will be a large crowd of golfers at Moanalua Sunday to strive for the handsome cup.

New bids on the Country Club House will be opened on the 20th, some slight changes have been made in the plans.

GANS REAL NAME

A Baltimorean told us a story some time ago relating to Joe Gans that might be of more or less interest at the present time, now that the champion is so strongly in the limelight. It may be that it may not be authentic, and is printed for what it is worth. "Joe Gans" name is not "Gans" at all," said the man from Baltimore. "His name is 'Gans.' Along about thirteen years ago, when he first started fighting around Baltimore, he gave his name as 'Gans,' but as the latter is an uncommon name, it invariably was printed 'Gans' and 'a' being used instead of 'u.' Whether it was an error on the part of the printers or of the scribes who wrote it, I cannot say, but it was printed 'Gans' so persistently that it finally was accepted and believed to be his correct name. The person who made the statement says he is from Baltimore, but there are many people who come from Missouri, so naturally the latter demand that they be 'shown.' One thing is certain: If Joe 'Gans' name is 'Gans' Battling Nelson found it rather hard to see through him.

BATTING

"The team that cannot hit cannot win." This saying is a trite one, and the writer claims no originality for the expression. The truth of the axiom, however, appeals to every man and boy who has a healthy leaning and taken interest in the world's greatest sport. Hitting is the pivot on which all games swing, and it is the point of the game which lends action and zest to baseball.

Battling appeals to the fan, especially batting on the part of the home club, more than any other feature. There is not a manager in either big league who is not constantly on the alert for promising hitters. No matter how sensationally a man may field in the minor leagues, if he cannot hit well his chances for getting into major league company are slim indeed.

The writer cannot understand why more effort is not made to improve hitting. Professional ball players are woefully perfunctory in the performance of their duty. Some fans who know little or nothing of the inner workings of baseball prize about the improvement of the game. Certainly baseball has improved some. Yet the improvement in the game in the last decade is immeasurably less than it should be.

Ball players seem to court the idea that "not a batter now, never a batter." Just why any fine young fellow with a due amount of brawn can stand for such an unprogressive theory is beyond the ken of the average man.

A batter can improve his hitting, just as surely as a man can mend his education. Great hitters, of course, are born not made, but fair hitters and poor ones can improve themselves with diligent practice, just as surely as a man can improve himself in any other line of the world's work.

There is not a sport where there are more wrong theories prevailing, or rather, lack of theory at all, than baseball.

The methods of batting practice now in vogue strike the writer as glaringly faulty. The usual procedure is for a fine, budding fellow, very careful of himself, and withal lazy to a fault, to stand up and take his turn with a lot of other fellows of a similar sort. Generally some player, or not infrequently a manager, tosses the ball up to the batter in such a fashion that a man who never saw a baseball could face it out.

Now, wouldn't it be better for a manager of a club to have some pitcher go into the box and send the sphere across the same as he does in a regular game? In this way a batter might train his eye to speed and curves. The batting practice now in vogue, the writer holds useless for all practical purposes, or worse than useless. After a batter whales away haphazard at any kind of pitching at a faulty distance, it is not reasonable to expect him to come up to the bat and cope successfully with speed and fast-breaking curves and change of pace.

Why can't managers of baseball teams improve their charges and

STRENGTHEN THEM, JUST THE SAME AS FOOTBALL COACHES DEVELOP MATERIAL? OF COURSE, THE ANSWER TO THIS IS SIMPLE. BASEBALL MANAGERS DON'T TRY. THEY WILL TELL A FELLOW WHAT HE SHOULD DO IN THE LINE OF THE GAME, BUT AS THEY NEVER TAUGHT THE SAME LAD HOW TO DO THINGS CORRECTLY IN PRACTICE, THE PLAYER DOES NOT AND CANNOT DO THE RIGHT THING IN A GAME.

There are right methods of batting and wrong methods. Certainly, great hitters differ somewhat in the style they assume at the plate, but they all bat with the idea of getting as much wrist and arm action and weight in their swinging as possible.

Proper position at the plate and the right training of the eye are the essential features of batting. The present method of fungo practice is balderdash and worthless. Slamming away uselessly at slow, straight pitching is merely wasted energy and conducive to insulf fast batting methods in a batter.

Of course, the great hitters, followers who are born hitters, do not require much practice, but the men who are very ordinary hitters, and they are in the majority, should practice batting.

KAUAI REGISTRATION

Lihue, Kauai, Oct. 8.—It is a gratifying sign of an increasing interest in public affairs in this island, contrary to expectation, the number of registered voters is going to exceed the registration of two years ago considerably. It was expected that the number would fall short of the former lists on account of a number of Portuguese having left Kauaiian precincts.

This seems not to have been the case, as the voters in that district fall only two short of the number registered in 1904. Most of the other precincts overran former registration. So far the lists show 1969 voters, divided among the following precincts:

- Hanaele 100
- Kilauea 149
- Kaula 235
- Lihue 96
- Koloa 76
- Waikawa 88
- Makaweli 142
- Waimea 70
- Kelaha 100

To this will be added Nihaun, with about forty votes, and a few stragglers that will turn up at the last day of registration tomorrow.

A PESTIFEROUS GERM.

Burrows Up the Scalp Into Dandruff and Saps the Hair's Vitality.

People who complain of falling hair as a rule do not know that it is the result of dandruff, which is caused by a pestiferous parasite burrowing up the scalp as it digs down to the sheath in which the hair is fed in the scalp. Before long the hair root is shriveled up and the hair drops out.

If the work of the germ is not destroyed hair keeps thinning till baldness comes. The only way to cure dandruff is to kill the germ, and until now there has been no hair preparation that would do it; but today dandruff is easily eradicated by Newbros' Herpicide, which makes hair glossy and soft as silk. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Hollister Drug Co., special agents.
